

Come as Children: Trust, Endure, and Overcome

"Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these." – Matthew 19:14

Life brings challenges to everyone—the rain falls on both the righteous and the wicked (Matthew 5:45). Yet those who come to Christ, like children, find strength through trust and humility. Faith doesn't remove hardship, but it transforms it.

As believers, we are not called to just survive but to overcome. "No weapon formed against us will prosper" (Isaiah 54:17), and in all things, we are more than conquerors through Him who loves us (Romans 8:37). When we come to God with childlike faith, we face trials with the confidence that He is working all things for good (Romans 8:28).

This childlike trust also arms us for spiritual battles. "The weapons we fight with are not the weapons of the world"—they have divine power to demolish anything that sets itself against God's truth (2 Corinthians 10:4-5). Victory doesn't come by our strength but by the power of the One who has already overcome the world (John 16:33).

So, come as children. Trust. Endure. Overcome. Because in Christ, the kingdom belongs to such as these.
