

"Strength Under Control"

A written message shared with a small home church — March 3, 2025

Read it here: <https://mission.place/lectures>

What does strength look like in the Kingdom of God?

This piece is a reflection on meekness—the kind of strength that chooses surrender. It's about building faithfully, leading without ego, and letting God shape us before we try to shape anything else.

I had the honor of sharing it with a small group of believers in a home. I've posted it online in hopes it might serve others too.

Mission.Place

is a growing platform for Kingdom-centered content and collaboration.

I'm currently the sole content creator, but the structure is designed to support more—including entire organizations.

If you're looking to:

- 🔥 Share Kingdom-centered teaching
- 🤝 Collaborate on ministry or tech
- 🏠 Find support for your church or mission

I'd love to connect.

hashtag#KingdomLeadership hashtag#FaithAndWork hashtag#Meekness
hashtag#MinistrySupport hashtag#MissionPlace hashtag#ChristianLeadership
hashtag#ServantLeadership hashtag#ChurchOnline hashtag#DigitalMinistry

MISSION. PLACE
ENGINEERING HOPE